The Porpouse
and our target groups

Us from the future

We are making a portfolio capsule memory for the fun of our future nerdy developer brains.

Just imageine that one day, some random entrepreneur we just met at a networking conference at Space X, will ask us, how we started on this adventure of ours that got us to be invited to do a one hour one on one conversation with Elon Musk. And so, we will kindly show him this website and have a good giggle with him, as we prepare to get on stage. That will be a great moment, to be reminded of the class of 2020.

Others who are interested in WoldCode School

Many will try to follow on our footsteps.
This website will let them see the light before they enter the tunnel.

So for whomever will be interested in taking the WildCode School classes, they will now be able to shuffle through our performences and checkout our amazing progress. They will be able to see our projects and go on our websites and right click - inspect and then simply be marveled by our codes.
They will then surely checkout the classes and enroll, in the hope that they will also achieve such greatness. We can only hope they will.